

NEWARK MEN VISIT ZANESVILLE SUNDAY AS GUESTS OF ADVOCATE

Inspect Damage Done by the Late Flood Which Rendered Thousands of People Homeless

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY CAN HARDLY BE ESTIMATED

Over 1500 are Still Receiving Aid from the Relief Committee—Stupendous Task of Rehabilitating Damaged Section—Much Can Yet Be Done by Newark for the Flood Sufferers of Our Neighboring City.

Does any one doubt that flood stricken Zanesville still needs help? Does anybody think that Newark should not continue to lend a helping hand? Does any person feel that the published reports regarding conditions in Zanesville have been exaggerated?

If so let him ask any one of the dozen Newark men who visited Zanesville yesterday afternoon as guests of the Newark Advocate.

"The extent of the damage and loss of homes and property by the Zanesville flood can scarcely be estimated," was the comment of Judge Fulton of Common Pleas court on completing his round of the stricken neighboring city for whose relief Newark has contributed more than any other city in the country except Pittsburgh.

The expression of the Common Pleas jurist explains why a description of Zanesville's flood district would be practically a hopeless task.

A party of a dozen representative Newark business and professional men went to Zanesville, Sunday, as guests of the Advocate and toured the city in order that they might give firsthand information concerning the havoc wrought in Zanesville by the raging current of the entire Muskingum valley, which centered its force upon the Muskingum county seat with such disastrous results.

LET NEWARK LEAD.

(Fred C. Evans, President Board of Trade.)

"I should like to see Newark lead all the rest in offering aid to the Zanesville flood sufferers. When one thinks of the number of people in Zanesville who have lost all they ever had—in many instances the savings from years of hard work—it seems it would scarcely be necessary to urge our citizens to donate liberally to the great needs of Zanesville. The sights of Sunday have impressed me with the seriousness of the conditions there."

suits that today between 1500 and 1800 families are looking to the local Zanesville relief committee for support.

The Advocate's party was composed of:

F. M. Swartz, Mayor.

F. C. Evans, President Board of Trade.

Edward Kibler, President Board of Education.

Harry Rosell, President City Council.

T. B. Fulton, Common Pleas Judge.

Robbins Hunter, Probate Judge.

Roderic Jones, City Solicitor.

R. W. Smith, President Newark Telephone Co.

W. C. Wells, Secretary Board of Trade.

Ex-Senator William E. Miller, Manager Newark Hardware Co.

Wilson Hawkins, Superintendent of Public Schools.

W. H. Mazy, President of the W. H. Mazy Co.

C. H. Spencer, Manager Newark Advocate.

The party arrived in Zanesville at 3 o'clock, after catching a glimpse of

TO SEE IS TO BELIEVE.

(By Harry Rosell, president City Council.)

"Zanesville's condition is terrible. It is almost impossible to estimate the loss in homes, property and household belongings until you have visited the city and see its condition now, after a month's hard work by relief committees and citizens who were not flood victims. Such a disaster ought to bring forth the heartiest kind of a response from the people of Newark in behalf of the sufferers in the neighboring city."

VOLUME 78—NUMBER 12

FLOOD STORY NOT EXAGGERATED.

(By F. M. SWARTZ, MAYOR OF NEWARK.)

The story of the Zanesville flood has not been exaggerated. Present conditions in our neighboring city almost require description. Though the relief work has been prompt and intelligent, there is urgent demand for still more help if Zanesville is to be rehabilitated. The food supply is enough, the people have sufficient clothing and fuel, there is abundant work for all and wages are good, but many people are in immediate need of the barest household necessities in order to permit them to resume living in their flood stricken homes. The relief committee has so far been able to give not more than two or three beds to any family. Some have none and are living as best they can with neighbors or friends. Cooking stoves, tables, rugs, window shades, chairs are what the people need. Any kind of household furnishings will not be amiss. Of course money will be most acceptable.

To date the Zanesville committee has expended in Newark for supplies fully $2000 as the articles most needed can not be procured in Zanesville.

In company with thirteen other Newark men I visited Zanesville yesterday, inspected the whole city and talked with Zanesville people. The picture of Zanesville's distress has not been overdrawn. In fact it has not been painted vividly enough. Words are inadequate. Everywhere our party which visited Zanesville as guests of the Newark Advocate heard words of praise for the splendid work already done by Newark people but do we deserve great praise? We have simply gone by Zanesville what we in like circumstances would expect from others. Let all of us give according to our means and do what we can to lift a terrific burden from the shoulders of our sister city. There is no danger of our giving Zanesville more help than it really needs.

Secretary Bryan Has Arrived at Sacramento, Cal.

[Associated Press Telegram] Sacramento, Calif., April 28.—William J. Bryan, secretary of state, arrived in Sacramento today to confer with Governor Johnson and the California legislature on the proposed alien-land holding laws. Governor Johnson met the visitor at the train, where a crowd of legislators had gathered.

No advance plans for the proposed conference between Mr. Bryan and the California authorities had been made; and Mr. Bryan stated as he stepped off of the train that he had left the matter entirely in the hands of the governor.

Secretary Bryan made the following statement on his arrival: "I am visiting California at the request of the President and with the consent of the legislature, to confer

London, April 28.—The representative of the Montenegrin government in London received instructions today from Cetinje ordering him to protest formally against the demand by the European powers for the immediate evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrins which is described by the government of King Nicholas as "unjust and cruel."

SPECIALIST ON STAND

Refutes Evidence of the State's Experts and Says Florence Cavileer Smith Died of Disease of the Heart.

[Associated Press Telegram] Springfield, O., April 28.—It was informally announced today by attorneys for the defense in the trial of Dr. A. B. Smith, charged with having caused the death of his wife, Florence Smith, by poisoning, that their testimony by Thursday.

This is the beginning of the third week of the trial. Dr. Frank Winders, professor at Starling-Ohio medical university and an eminent heart specialist, occupied the stand at closing last week and was again called this morning. He is a specialist in the symptoms of angina pectoris and has been president of the state medical association.

Describing the symptoms of angina pectoris Dr. Winders said nausea might be present and in an accompanying endema the face becomes puffed and purple. He stated that the post mortem does not always show traces, that murmurs might be present in life and heart valves appear normal after death, and directly opposing Dr. Coons, the state expert, said that without knowing symptoms no one could say from post mortem whether the patient did not die of heart trouble.

In open court, the jury being excused, the witness was permitted to examine the heart of Florence Smith, now in evidence as Exhibit A. He stated that he found a thickening of coronary arteries discernible to the naked eye. Accepting presence of arterial sclerosis, he said that angina pectoris and myocarditis would undoubtedly follow. Questions were answered to show the incompleteness of the state's post mortem, the witness saying that to trace the coronary arteries would be an unending job and it might take hundreds of slides.

In answer to the defense the question as to the cause of the death of Florence Smith he said: "I should say she died of some disease of the heart from abnormal conditions shown there."

WAR SPEECH IS MADE BY REP. SISSON

[Associated Press Telegram] Washington, April 28.—A "war speech" in support of the proposed California anti-alien land law was delivered in the house today by Representative Sisson of Mississippi.

"If we must have war or submit to this indignity, I am for war," cried Mr. Sisson. "I am with the people of California in their efforts to prevent these aliens from acquiring land."

Washington, April 28.—It was stated at the Japanese embassy today that there had been no change in the status of the negotiations regarding the California alien land bill since Secretary Bryan's departure for Sacramento. The Japanese government is awaiting the outcome of the secretary's mission.

California now ranks first among all the states west of the Missouri river in the value of mineral production.

ZANESVILLE'S NEED GREAT.

(By William H. Mazy.) "After taking a trip around the city I see that the situation is far worse than it would appear from a hasty glance obtained shortly after the flood. It is clearly apparent to me that Zanesville is in great need and I believe the great number of homeless families should receive all the support Newark people can possibly lend."

"General" Coxe Predicts "Gutters of Blood" in 1914

General Jacob S. Coxey, who led the "Coxey army" to Washington, and was shooed away by unfriendly politicians because his soldiers violated the "Keep Off the Grass" signs, has just announced that "Blood will run in the gutters in 1914." The "general" will take no part for by shrewd investments since the days of his army, he has made a comfortable fortune. He now spends most of his time at fashionable hotels, where he philosophizes on current events and watches his business investments.

SOLONS OF OHIO MEET ONCE MORE

Final Adjournment May Not be Made Before Middle of This Week

COX'S APPOINTMENTS

Announced Shortly Before Noon Today—Ex-Gov. Harmon's Recess Appointments Returned to the Senate.

[Associated Press Telegram] Columbus, O., April 28.—The senate passed the small school board bill backed by the Cincinnati delegation and it now goes to the governor.

[Associated Press Telegram] Columbus, April 28.—Political snails that have grown up during the ten days recess hung over both houses of the legislature when they convened today and threatened to postpone final adjournment until the middle of the week instead of this evening as scheduled.

Friends of several of the Democratic congressmen who concede that they will have been "put out of the running" as a result of the congressional redistricting bill put through over the authorship of Representative Fulton of Licking county were making desperate efforts today to have the bill withdrawn from the governor's table.

It was doubtful, however, if any formal attempt along that line will be made.

The house was occupied throughout the forenoon session with the passage of unimportant bills most of which had originated in the senate. It early became seemingly apparent that final adjournment would be deferred by the two houses until late tomorrow.

Governor Cox today announced the following appointments: Stuart Cadwallader of Cleveland, to succeed Allen W. Thurman as a member of the state board of administration; Albrecht B. Peckinpaugh, of Wayne county, member of the state tax commission to succeed R. M. Dittley; O. P. Gohlitz, of Dayton, re-appointed member of public service commission for term ending February 19, 1919; Thomas W. Kearns, of Montgomery county, re-appointed inspector of workshops and factories; John A. Bawmcker, Franklin county re-appointed state geologist.

Mr. Peckinpaugh held an important position with the tax commission until last January, when he resigned to become deputy auditor of state. Judge Ditty was appointed by former Governor Harmon. Both men are Democrats. The promotion increases Mr. Peckinpaugh's salary from $2,000 to $2,500.

Governor Cox has also selected two men to serve on his agricultural committee, they are state dairy and food commissioner S. E. Strode of Galion and A. P. Sandles, secretary of the state board of agriculture. Two others are to be selected. The formal appointment of Messrs. Strode and Sandles will not be made until later, but the governor has decided upon these two men for membership on the commission. They will receive $5,000 salaries.

All of the recess appointments of former Governor Harmon were returned to the senate by the governor without recommendation. They were referred to a special committee, thus leaving the matter so that Governor Cox may permit these appointments to remain in office or remove them as he may choose.

Included in the list of recess appointments, are state oil inspector McKinney, State Highway Commissioner Marker and a number of others.

Among the bills passed in the house were: The Holden bill, making it a misdemeanor to circulate false stories affecting the financial standing of any corporation.

The Seward bill, permitting first

SENATOR MILLER'S VIEW.

(By Wm. F. Miller.) "Newark cannot do too much toward helping to relieve the suffering of the stricken people of Zanesville. Their need is only very slightly provided for and the tireless efforts of the relief committee in Zanesville should meet with a response from Newark. There is plenty more for us to do, and after a trip through the flooded territory I am convinced that they are still in great need."

SOMETHING NEW IN NEWARK---FROM "THE LAND OF THE LONG LEAF PINE"

An "Outside" Treatment That Relieves Croup and Cough Troubles Quicker Than Internal Medicines. Applied Externally, It is Inhaled as a Vapor and Absorbed Through the Skin. Local Druggists are Selling It in 25c, 50c and $1.00 Jars on 30 Days Trial—Money Back if Not Delighted. Might few of us are able to follow the example of wealthy easterners who, when they have a touch of lung trouble or a chronic cold, take a trip to the pine barrens of North Carolina. "The Land of the long leaf pine." There is always summer and cold troubles are soon banished by the warm dry air, spiced with the odor of uncounted leagues of pine forests. But the Newark druggists have recently received a treatment that is almost as good. It is the invention of a North Carolina druggist, who discovered a process of combining, in the form of a salve, the Carolina pine tar with Menthol from Japan. Camphor from the Isle of Formosa, and the oils of Cubebs, Juniper, Thymol and Eucalyptol. By this process the heat of the body releases these ingredients in the form of vapors when the preparation is applied over the throat and chest. Those soothing, medicated vapors are breathed in all night long, at the same time the preparation is absorbed through the skin, taking out the soreness. It seems a remarkable claim, but croup is really relieved in fifteen minutes, and most colds go over night. Of course severe cases require longer treatment and the pores of the skin, over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades, should first be opened by applications of hot wet towels. Then the salve should be rubbed in well and covered with warm flannel cloths. The covering around the neck should be kept loose so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. For all forms of bronchial troubles, catarrh, asthma, tonsillitis, etc., this new treatment will be found unusually effective. The Newark druggists are showing their confidence in this preparation by selling it on 30 days trial. With each sale they give a refund blank good for your money back if you are not delighted with the results. This treatment is known as Vicks Vapo-Rub and comes in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00. The price is never cut.

Washington, April 25.—A rush of speechmaking on the final day of general debate on the tariff bill made lively proceedings in the house. Chairman Underwood has not changed his view that the bill should be disposed of in the house within a week from today and that the sugar schedule is not likely to offer much real trouble. He hoped that unless the fight of the anti free wool advocates spreads, the bill will emerge from the senate substantially in the form which it stands.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

The Value of Beauty in the Home

PROMINENT woman lecturer said in a recent address:

"The Greeks in their development of the sense of beauty were as far above the Anglo-Saxons of today as the Anglo-Saxon is above the negro. This was due to the presence all about them of some form of beauty."

At first glance this seems rather a strong statement. But when we begin to analyze it we must admit its truth. The Anglo-Saxon is known for his mechanical productions, for progress in material things, rather than in art or the things that are purely beautiful. No Anglo-Saxon nation can, as a nation, stand where Greece stood in sculpture and architecture and poetry and the like.

To be sure, we of today place chief value on material things. We would rather be well clothed and well fed and hygienic and germ-proof than poetical or socratic. We would rather have sanitary houses than Doric temples.

But why can't we have both? Why cannot we on the solid substantial basis we have laid of proficiency in material and mechanical arts uprear a beautiful superstructure of music and sculpture and poetry and all those things we consider the fine arts?

Surely these things are worth while in life. The ancient glory of the Greeks has faded perhaps because they had only the superstructure and no foundation. We have the foundation and no superstructure, and so our glory, even can we give it such a name, is of a low order.

But if we could combine the two would we not then have the symmetrical development?

And how can we do this? We have succeeded so well industriously, that we need give this part of our development little further thought. It is the realm of beauty to which we need now to turn our attention.

And to progress here can we not find a helpful suggestion in the statement of the lecturer that the superiority of the Greeks in the expression of beauty was due to the presence all about them of beauty in some form.

To grow then into a beauty-loving and beauty-expressing people, into a people who will give to the world the finest in music and poetry and painting and sculpture, we need to surround ourselves with beauty. We need to express it in our home. We need to express it in our outside environment—in our cities, our country, our schools, and other buildings. And we need to do this, not only that we may ourselves find pleasure in these things whenever our eye rests upon them, but that we may cultivate a sense of beauty in our children, and thus, as with the Greeks, develop a race that knows and loves and expresses beauty.

To some extent we are now doing this. But we need to do it more generally and as a whole people. Every woman should see that her surroundings express beauty. She should carefully study the colors of her furnishings and see if they harmonize. She should attentively consider her pictures and bric-a-brac and all such things to discover if they are really beautiful or if they have been gathered thoughtlessly or haphazardly, and have little inherent beauty.

And to express beauty in one's environment does not necessarily mean the expenditure of large sums of money. The proper combination of colors gives beauty. The arrangement of furniture so that groups and lines shall be artistic means beauty. The placing in the home of reproductions of the masterpieces of painting and sculpture, which can now be secured for little, means beauty.

So, if we will, we can surround ourselves with the atmosphere of beauty, and give it to our children.

And every one who is doing this is helping, not only those who come within this influence to good undreamed of, but he is helping also the nation forward to a development of the artistic sense that may mean much to our future national life.

ELOQUENT PLEA OF REV. L. C. SPARKS SUNDAY EVENING

Declaring that men of business integrity and conscientious citizens must give themselves to the government of the city and that the city will not greatly advance industrially until these men of conscience consent to become heads of the city government and members of council, Rev. L. C. Sparks Sunday night made an eloquent plea to the men of Newark to enter into the problems of municipal government with the future of the city's manhood in mind.

His sermon on "What's the Matter With Newark" was in a measure an effort to answer this question which was propounded in a feature article published in the Advocate April 19. This article, among other things, declared that any city was what its men made it. That no city, in which its citizens had no pride, would advance far along the road to prosperity. The article was a plea for greater personal interest in the welfare of Newark—by Newark people.

Dr. Sparks elaborated upon the Scriptural passage in Zachariah, eighth chapter and fifth verse, "and the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof." He declared that this prophet of biblical times had a vision of the twentieth century when he wrote those words and that it was not a wild assertion to say that his dream of the Utopia was coming true.

He referred to Thomas Moore's Utopia, published in the fifteenth century, in which the writer prophesied certain things in centuries to come. His words were received with derision by the people of those days, but his dreams are coming true.

"Zachariah's declaration is a fine description of the Utopia," declared Dr. Sparks. "It is a beautiful dream. To think of the little children playing in the streets of a city, with no physical or moral danger, but it will eventually come. It is not a visionary dream, but it is a prophecy that is coming true."

The speaker referred to the recent change in the form of government in China, where a few years ago these same people were aroused in a movement which has since been termed the Boxer uprising. He declared that the world is experiencing an upward trend of events.

He spoke of the progressive legislation recently enacted, such as pension laws for mothers, the workmen's compensation and liability acts, the child labor laws and other statutes which are along radical lines, undreamed of a few years ago. He spoke of the progress being made in the flight of vice as an illustration of the improvement of the moral atmosphere of the civilized world.

Localizing the questions, Dr. Sparks took up a number of problems propounded in the Advocate's special article. He declared that until the citizenship of any community assumed the responsibility of creating better moral conditions it could not progress rapidly. He de-

"CLEAN-UP" IS CITY'S SLOGAN DURING WEEK

[Associated Press Telegram]
Philadelphia, April 25.—This is All-Philadelphia "clean-up" week. Following the plans agitated by the Civil club and mapped out by the department of public works, the city starts today on the most extensive campaign for cleanliness and health ever undertaken by an American municipality. The campaign began yesterday when clergymen from scores of pulpits appealed to their congregations to co-operate in the movement.

Bulletins and circulars have been scattered broadcast throughout the city in the past few days preaching the campaign and every trolley car in the city displays one or more posters with the same appeal.

The plan is to concentrate on cleanliness for six days, beginning today. Factories, stores, railroads and all commercial and industrial establishment have been asked to co-operate.

NEWARK PAYS FIRST ESTIMATE FOR IMPROVEMENTS

The first estimates for the proposed improvements over the city which it is estimated will cost close to $75,000 was made Saturday when Mr. Nutter was paid the first installment on the contract for paving South Fifth street and Buckingham street. The excavation on both of these streets has been finished and the gravel foundations for the brick. This will follow as soon as the property owners have finished carrying the sewer connections to the curb lines.

KILL THE FLY MAGGOT NOW

MANURE—particularly horse manure—is the favorite food of the fly. A single manure pile may give its neighborhood a billion flies before the season's close.

Chloride of lime, generously applied will kill the fly maggot. However, the lime is not effective unless large quantities are used. Approximately two pounds of lime per bushel of manure are necessary. Also the lime is more or less ineffective unless a thorough mixture is secured. Where the treatment has been properly followed about 90 per cent of the fly maggots have been killed.

The chloride of lime treatment is relatively expensive and cannot be applied without some labor. However, the results justify both the expenditure and the effort.

A kerosene treatment will also kill the fly maggot. About one quart of kerosene to a bushel of manure should be used. The oil must be thoroughly washed down into the manure pile. It will kill practically every fly maggot.

Both chloride of lime and kerosene can best be applied by spraying them upon the manure pile. Only in this way can a thorough mixture be attained. They should be spread or sprayed upon each day's barn sweepings.

HELPED BY VISIT TO THE CAREY SHRINE

The shrine of the Lady of Consolation at Carey, Ohio, has been the scene of cures of incurable ailments for some time and to many it was a source of untold joy. For often a cure has been effected where it was thought not only improbable but impossible.

However to none of these has come greater cause for amazement than to Mrs. D. W. Evans and her daughter, Miss Mary Evans of West Main street. Miss Mary Evans has been a sufferer for several years with an ailment of the eyes which has brought on blindness and she has been able to only see in the distance and this slight sight was fast disappearing. The child has been a student at the Columbus school for the blind, where she has been receiving her education, and the best specialists in the state have been consulted, but none of these held out any promise for the restoration of the sight.

The visit to the shrine was made the latter part of the week and the mother and daughter returned home Sunday. The child has been greatly benefited her sight being greatly improved, and it seems that the power of sight gradually grows stronger each day. Both mother and daughter feel the greatest faith in this partial restoration.

NEWARK MEN

When it is noted that half the houses in Zanesville were in water during the flood, and that 3,000 families were driven from their homes, many of which will never again be habitable, a vague conception of the extent of damage can be obtained.

The drive through the flood-stricken portions of Zanesville consumed an hour and a half and covered possibly twenty miles of streets. On every hand was desolation and every evidence of distress and want. It was a matter of surprise to those of the party who had not previously visited Zanesville since the flood that the downtown business district was so gravely affected. Store rooms along Main street from nearly a quarter of a mile west of the "Y" bridge to the county court house showed effects of inundation anywhere from a depth covering the ground floor to the roofs in many instances.

SITUATION TERRIBLE.

(By Robert W. Smith.) "Conditions in the Muskingum county seat are too bad for description. The flood has simply transformed half of the middle class home district into a district of wrecked houses, washed streets and piled up debris. If Newark had suffered such a disaster I know the citizens would appreciate Zanesville's assistance, and I think Newark people should respond readily with funds and supplies to help those people get back into their homes. There is very little left of many houses, and some are gone entirely. The situation is terrible."

First floor store rooms were cleaned of their equipment as if swept with a mighty broom, and great streaks across the sidings showed the height reached by the raging water. The most noticeable damage in the heart of the business section was that to the Munson Music Co.'s three story building, where the entire front half of the structure collapsed into the water with thousands of dollars worth of new pianos and other costly musical instruments. At the side of this building the street is being filled where a fifteen-foot hole was washed by the surging current from the Muskingum.

But the home section of the city, in the lower portion of the river basin, suffered terrible losses. For squares in the district on both sides of the Muskingum, both east and west of the city, there is scarcely a home that does not show more or less damage from the water. For blocks the streets are lined with debris, overturned houses and barns, piles of furniture and household equipment that never can be restored, and refuse lies in great piles on either side of the streets.

Despite activities of the relief committee, which has done excellent work in cleaning up refuse and debris washed hither and yon by the water's force, but small progress can be made, so great is the destruction.

Homes that were once comfortably fitted for living and were occupied by an entire family, are now, if standing and at all tenable, only providing scant room for the meager belongings that have been furnished by the relief committee with the aid of other cities. Many families have been housed with friends. In several hundred homes two and three families are living, while the relief committee is working day and night to provide a means of sustenance for these families.

Along Riverside drive destruction was complete. Many beautiful homes on the Putnam side of the river, which were believed to be safe from high water since the record of 1898, have been ruined by the flood. While lawns, terraces and private parks have been transformed into sand beds and a resting place for tangled brush, remnants of homes and furniture and debris of all kinds.

The great danger of an epidemic is not yet past in Zanesville. There are several cases of small pox, some of these among homeless flood sufferers; scarlet fever, typhoid fever, diphtheria and the like, but those who escaped with their homes and business are keeping up courage and working hard to stamp out these maladies before they reach a serious extent.

City's Greatest Needs.

When asked by members of the Newark party brought to view the city by the Advocate, Mr. O'Neal of the relief committee declared that Zanesville's greatest need is "practically everything."

Said he: "We need everything but food and clothing. We have already distributed $50,000 worth of foodstuffs and by coming to an understanding with local merchants, early in the work we have been able to get the goods at almost our own prices. Most of the manufacturing

HEROIC WORK DONE.

(By W. C. Wells.) "Zanesville people have done heroic work since the flood of March 21, but the task still confronting them seems almost hopeless. They need all the encouragement and all the help that Newark can give. The story of the flood's damage can not be told with words. To realize the extent of the destruction and appreciate the need of more help the stricken city must be seen. Those who have not helped these homeless people should help them now."

MONEY NEEDED.

(By Judge Robbins Hunter.) "Our trip around Zanesville yesterday afternoon showed that the conditions there could hardly be exaggerated. Hundreds of houses are absolutely ruined and the people left destitute. The problem of taking care of these sufferers is taxing the relief committees to the utmost and they need encouragement. They are very grateful for the assistance rendered by Newark people."

Hundreds of families will have to be given financial assistance to give them another start and there is no limit to the amount of money that will be needed for this purpose. Money sent to help the relief workers at Zanesville could hardly be put to a better advantage.

plants in the city have resumed operations and we have cut off the free food supply except in a very few cases. We continued giving free food until the men of the families succeeded in getting back to work and after their first pay we let them furnish their own food.

"But what we need now is household supplies, stores, bedding, tables, carpets, cupboards—in fact, everything in the housekeeping line. You must remember that most of these families lost absolutely everything. What wasn't swept away in the current was so damaged by the water that it's useless now."

"So far as we have been able, we have supplied each family with a stove and one bed. That is about all there is in hundreds of these homes you have seen. These people must have bedding. They need cooking utensils and chairs, washing outfits. In fact they need everything."

Every member of the Advocate's party was impressed with the horror of the situation and the indescribable havoc and disorganized appearance of the outskirts of the city was the subject of continuous comment of the sightseers along the journey through the city. It was a matter of comment that many merchants in the stricken districts had shown courage to restock their stores to an extent and endeavor to re-engage in business after suffering absolute loss of stock and homes. In several instances.

Members of the party took occasion to express appreciation of the efforts of Messrs. Starr and O'Neal and Safety Director Orr in showing the Advocate's party over the city and explaining the disaster so some conception of the losses was made possible.

Col. William Wells, of the Board of Trade, offered the following comment:

"During the flood I happened to be a member of the party that took the first supply of boats to Zanesville, and in a motor boat I went over the flooded district. The scenes then was beyond description. Entire residences were inundated for squares in the lower sections of the city and the sight was horrible. Sunday there was great evidence of the activity of the relief committee and assistants. But Zanesville is suffering greatly today and there are many hundreds of people without means of providing sustenance. It seems to me Newark people should give every penny they can spare, to try and replace these distressed people in their homes, or parts of homes, and put them in a position where they will be more able to help themselves."

"Their greatest need is household equipment, cooking outfits and bedding. They are living two and three families in a house, many hundreds of families having only a stove and a single bed with scant bedding if any. Newark has done well, but she should do more."

INTERURBAN SPLIT SWITCH IN THIRD STREET

Splitting a switch point in front of the Trust building as it turned into North Park Place Sunday morning, an interurban car with a trailer following blocked the tracks for three quarters of an hour before it was finally pulled back onto the tracks and sent to the barn for repairs.

The rear trucks of the motor, after failing to take the curve followed the rails north on Third street. As the rear end swung to the north, the draw bar was jerked to one side, breaking the iron work supporting it and demolishing the steps. The repair car which was summoned from the barns, had to make a return trip to the barn to secure chains long enough to use in returning the car to the rails. Passengers on the city cars were transferred around the blockade while repairs were being made.

REV. MR. TULLIS TALKED OF PEACE SUNDAY MORNING

Rev. Don Tullis, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church at the morning service Sunday talked on the subject of "Universal Peace." His sermon was a splendid argument for the wisdom of this movement which has been advocated from time to time by many of the world's great men.

Mr. Tullis declared that the world is living a great paradox when nations continue to improve their death dealing weapons and engines of war, while science is striving diligently with a great degree of success, in the saving of lives. He illustrated the futility of war, its awful cost in lives to say nothing of the heart aches and distress. He told of the losses in the world's greatest wars and declared that the objects accomplished by these conflicts could just as well have been accomplished by peaceful arbitration. He thought that the sentiment for universal peace was growing and that the time was not far off when it would become a fact realized instead of a mere dream.
